

Participants' Code of Conduct

- A Commitment to ethical behavior between the supervisor and the members of his team and between the team and some and between the team and the management of the competition.
- The supervisor is responsible for behavioral control in interactions and communication between participants in his team (publications in forums discussion - social media - meetings - exchange of ideas - ...)
- The supervisor is responsible for providing a disciplined learning environment that respects individual differences between team members.
- The supervisor is responsible for training participants and enabling them to compete.
- The supervisor is responsible for their team and can trust them.
- The supervisor is responsible for providing a comfortable learning environment that helps participants to ask questions and discuss concerns and challenges.
- The supervisor is responsible for guiding his team to commit to the honesty of transporting others and respecting intellectual property.
- The supervisor is responsible for guiding his team to respect the management of the competition and respect the members of the team for each other.
- Commitment to the training and support sessions that will be submitted by the management of the competition.

The Student:

- Students must act ethically.
- Students must comply with the rules of the competition.
- Compliance with general guidelines and ethics for dealing with the Internet (chat rooms, discussion forums, polling or sharing an idea).